

Kim Wall

High School Director at LENZ

Topic: Tertiary Pathways for International Students - Meeting Academic and English Language Needs

Kim believes in unlocking a student's potential through exceptional education and life experiences. Spanning over 15 years in the education industry, she has enjoyed teaching in Primary, Secondary and Tertiary positions (both in New Zealand and overseas), Head of Department (ESOL), Curriculum Development, International Student Relations, Management, Marketing and Recruitment roles.

Kim is passionate about providing students with the right foundations on which to build rewarding careers. In her current role as High School Director at LENZ, Kim supports international students with their transition from High School to Tertiary education. She visits High Schools across New Zealand presenting free workshops on Tertiary Pathways, providing insights into employment trends, meeting English Language requirements, qualification options, tertiary providers, and Foundation / Diploma pathways. Each student receives course recommendations and career guidance based on individual goals and needs.

Recently Kim has been consulting with High Schools, offering PLD to support International Directors, ESOL teachers and SLT towards delivering effective programmes for international students and migrants. In particular, considering the impact Literacy co-requisite and NCEA changes may have on student achievement; and further, how this may affect students' transition into tertiary education.
